SERVING THE GRAND COULEE DAM AREA, WASHINGTON STATE

FEBRUARY 26, 2014

Newsbriefs

Park supported by city

Grand Coulee City Council voted the $9,000 it pledged to support the maintenance of North Dam Park. The funds will come from the city's hotel/motel tax monies and be given to the Coulee Area Park & Recreation District, the organization managing the park. The council had earlier made a pledge of support in its 2014 budget and voted the funds in its recent meeting.

Meeting canceled

Tonight's Coulee Dam Town Council meeting has been cancelled due to a lack of a quorum, town officials said this week. The next council meeting will be April 9, at 6 p.m.

Joint field trip planned

The school board approved a sixth-grade field trip for students from Grand Coulee's Middle School and the sixth grade from Nespelem School. The field trip will take students to the Tall Timbers ranch near Leavenworth, and is being organized by middle school teacher Nate Piturachsait for May 14-16.

Personnel changes at schools

The school board made a number of personnel decisions Monday night. Jesse Utz was hired as a middle school paraprofessional; Marcy Doughty was named an office paraprofessional at the middle school; and Sheila Darnold is moving to the high school to fill a vacancy created by school Secretary Debbie VanGeystal's move to the central district office.

In other action, the board granted a leave to Shannon Petersen at Center Elementary School.

Needed: people to serve on commission

The town of Coulee Dam is looking for people interested in serving on its Civil Service Commission. Those chosen will serve the town by helping make and/or enforce the rules for the operation of the commission, give practical tests to help determine the ability of applicants, conduct investigations, hear and determine appeals and complaints, hold competitive tests to determine the qualifications of police officers, and other such duties. To qualify, you must be at least 18 and have been a resident of Coulee Dam for at least three years. Those interested can contact Mayor F. Gregory (Greg) Wilder at 633-0320.

Student count up

Grand Coulee Dam School District student enrollment remains strong as February's count came in at 666.68 students, some 26.68 students over budget. The district used a 640-student average in developing its 2013-14 budget.

Suspect arrested for burglaries

Lincoln County sheriff deputies arrested a Reardan man for burglary and theft charges after serving a search warrant at his residence and recovering stolen property Feb. 15.

Over the past several weeks, Sheriff Wade Magers said, deputies have been investigating property crimes in the Reardan area. Many man hours involving surveillance, follow up investigation and related case management have gone into the case, he said.

After obtaining the warrant, deputies assisted by Reardan police searched a residence where stolen property was recovered and identified by the legal owner.

"We believe there may be other stolen property in the residence," Magers said.

Daniel R. Thompson was arrested and booked into the Lincoln County Jail on theft and burglary charges and additional felonies for narcotics charges are pending Magers said.

"We continue to urge the public to be our eyes and ears and report any suspicious activity to the Lincoln County Sheriffs Office at 725-3501, and do not hesitate to utilize 911 for

New school taking shape

Tour reveals large classrooms to be well equipped

by Roger S. Lucas

The new K-12 school facility in Coulee Dam is beginning to show its colors.

A walk of the place last Wednesday revealed painted classrooms, some finish work on the final red metal roof and the beginning of rock work on the outside of the elementary wing.

School patrons and taxpayers in general may be in for a pleasant experience and surprise.

The new school is huge. Many of the classrooms are large with every type of teaching technology device available.

The walk through was in concert with Superintendent Dennis Carlson and furniture manufacturer Virco's representative, Jim Trimberger.

Trimberger was here to make sure that furniture for the facility will fit the spaces designed for it. He wandered through the rooms with a stack of blueprints in his hand to check and see if the measurement of spaces matched the designs planned for furniture.

His firm is one of four expected to bid on furnishings. The district plans to advertise for bids next week.

The classrooms on the lower floor of the elementary wing are painted, and soon painters will move to the upper floor.

Last Friday a number of teachers and staff members from Center School toured the elementary wing of the new school.

Trimberger said furniture, all made in America, would arrive by trucks and with a crew of about 10 people, take about a week or 10 days to get everything assembled and placed.

That is if his firm wins the bidding process.

Each kindergarten room, and there are three of them, is roomy and has one wall painted in a brilliant color. That color is matched outside the room on a canopy above the entrance door so the youngsters can find their room more easily.

That could be a chore for the younger children because the facility and its various areas are roomy.

Roger Easling, the construction manager for the school district, was also along on the walk through and his direction led to a room that had most of the cabinets installed.

Number of students now trends upward

Reversal could fill new school

by Roger S. Lucas

At one point, the Grand Coulee Dam School District was worried about a declining student population; now it is worried that it could end up with too many students.

The issue came up Monday night at the school board meeting with Superintendent Dennis Carlson telling the board that the new school facility could be maxed out when it opens next fall.

He asked the question: "Are we going to have a lot of students come here because we have a new school?"

When plans were made for the new school, the student population trend line had followed a downward slope for years.

The steady decline in student population apparently has bottomed out and monthly at-

Key medical staffer resigns from hospital

Says she is only the first to go

by Scott Hunter

A health care provider of nearly 20 years at Coulee Medical Center is resigning from her full-time position, citing adverse health affects from working with what she calls an incompetent and hostile administration.

Dawn Lovelace, a nurse practitioner and nurse midwife who has delivered about half the babies at the hospital for two decades, tendered her letter of resignation Monday.

Her departure will increase the pressure on the two remaining doctors who deliver babies, Andrew Castrodale and Jacob Chaffee.

That responsibility and their resulting inability to travel more than 20 minutes from the hospital ranks high among their concerns in a dispute with hospital administration in which they have repeatedly said they would leave without a change in administration.

Lovelace, who recently earned a doctorate degree in nursing, stated that she has taken a faculty position with Frontier Nursing University. She said she would like to keep working at CMC one day a week.

"... I can no longer tolerate the ongoing stress of working with an incompetent, uncommunicative and increasingly hostile administration," Lovelace wrote in her resignation letter. "The situation has been progressively worsening for the last two years, and I am now at the point where it is negatively affecting my health."

Hospital commission chair Jerry Kennedy said he was saddened to get the news.

"She has been a key, integral

New lasers should shine in May

by Roger S. Lucas

The all new laser light show is still on schedule for a late May showing this year.

Bureau of Reclamation Public Affairs Officer Lynne Brougher said this week that LumaLaser, the firm designing the show, has made revisions to the story line, graphics and text, and is progressing through the project, the development of which is "well along."

LumaLaser, a Eugene, Oregon firm, landed the $1.6 million contract and has been working with a stakeholder group here as the work on the project continues.

The project was supposed to be off and running last May, but glitches in developing the information for the story line delayed completion.

The goal of the project is to create a more comprehensive story about Grand Coulee Dam, including its influence on people, local communities and the nation's energy needs.

The current show, which lasts

35 minutes, has been shown since 1989. It cost $791,806 to develop. The length of the new show hasn't been pre-determined.

Stakeholders have met with LumaLaser representatives, sharing ideas and responding to the work in progress.

An inaugural showing of the new show was shared with stakeholders last summer and suggestions from the group prompted some revisions. Stakeholders include the Bureau, the Colville Confederated Tribes, the National Park Service, the chamber of commerce, representatives of irrigators and the mayors of nearby towns.

The show is one of the leading visitor activities at the dam during the traditional visitor season. The laser show starts in May and is continued nightly through September.

The contract for the project included new laser equipment, which has already been installed at the Visitor Center.

School board gives green light for gay support group

by Roger S. Lucas

The first step in developing a Gay/Straight Alliance Club at Lake Roosevelt High School was approved by the Grand Coulee Dam School District board of directors Monday night.

The board has asked the group to return in March with a set of bylaws, a purpose statement and financial cost to the district.

Associated Student Body President Brandin Smith and LRHS counselor Andrea Sperberg presented the idea to the board. Its members gave a unanimous vote for the idea with a request for more information.

The club would provide a place where gay students could find a support group, and provide information to other students in the hope of eliminating bad behavior towards gay students at the school.

Principal Brandon Byers said the group is currently going through all the hoops of forming a new student body club.

The board said if everything goes right the club would have a test time for the remainder of this school year, and then would have to get board approval for the 2014-15 school year sometime in August.

The cost of an advisor was estimated at just under $600 a year.

member of our medical staff, trusted and respected," he said. "She has been one of the people that have helped make this place what it is."

Lovelace's patients weren't taking the news lightly Tuesday afternoon.

"I am heartbroken!" said Cathy Mueller Johnson, of Wilbur, one of several who commented on Facebook. "One of the reasons I continue to return to CCH, even after moving from the area, is due to the trust and confidence I have in Dawn. This will be a great loss to the community."

"This is sad," said Karie Kuehne Eagle. "She has delivered all 3 of my children. I started at women's health in Spokane when I was pregnant with my first daughter and on high risk. I was unhappy with how we'd seen a different doctor every time up there. When I was 4 months along I transferred to Dawn after witnessing how attentive she was to a friend in labor. They are losing a very valuable person in my eyes. I am not happy the turn the hospital has taken lately."

A call from The Star seeking comment from CEO Scott Graham was returned by Director of Communications and Marketing Steve Becker.

"She has done an outstanding job caring for the patients of this community, and we wish her the very best," Becker said, adding that the hospital would be "delighted" if Lovelace could still fit one day a week at the hospital into her schedule.

Lovelace expressed "anger and hurt" in her letter, and said she was only the first of the long-term health care providers at CMC to go.

"We all have a great deal to lose, but we are quite firm in our commitment to leave if there is no administrative change," she said. "I am only the first one to do so."

Dawn Lovelace's complete letter of resignation

February 24, 2014

Coulee Medical Center Board of Directors:

After a great deal of soul searching, I have decided to resign from my full time position as a Nurse Practitioner and Nurse Midwife at CMC. I have accepted a faculty position with Frontier Nursing University, but I would like to continue working at CMC one day a week, if possible.

I had always thought I would retire from CMC. I love this practice; it has been a huge part of my life for almost 20 years. However, I can no longer tolerate the ongoing stress of working with an incompetent, uncommunicative and increasingly hostile administration. The situation has been progressively worsening for the last two years, and I am now at the point where it is negatively affecting my health.

We - the providers - have heard all the statements coming from administration; that we are overpaid and whining, and that our objections with administration are just about money. I want you to know that like most of my colleagues, I have never asked for a raise, and have not received even a cost of living raise in seven years. Our concerns have nothing to do with money.

We have also heard that none of the providers intended to actually quit when we made our statement of no confidence, that we were just making empty threats. You should know that we had tried everything else we could think of to change the decisions and course of this administration. All of our concerns had been falling on deaf ears. We had all been individually considering leaving, but decided that we would stand together and fight to save a practice we love. We all have a great deal to lose, but we are quite firm in our commitment to leave if there is no administrative change. I am only the first one to do so.

I have to admit to a great deal of anger and hurt. This is my community. I have a home here; three of my children graduated from Lake Roosevelt. My colleagues and I have built this practice, and I've worked the majority of my adult life here. It sickens me that persons who have only been here for a short time and in some cases do not even live here, have the power to tear down everything we have worked to build. I beg you as board members to find a solution to this impasse. We have shared our concerns with you. You must know that any resolution will require much more than telling administration to improve employee morale - the majority of our employees do not trust this administration.

I want to publicly thank my colleagues for their love and support. I would also like to express my gratitude to our amazing staff; it has been such a pleasure to work with them. Last, I would like to thank my patients for giving me their trust and allowing me to share some of the most intimate and meaningful parts of their lives.

With sadness,
Dawn Lovelace

be an eye opener to staff and students.

The kindergarten rooms will have considerable space devoted to computers with one wall lined with shelves and tables to support technology.

The facility has 30 miles of technology wiring.

Subcontractors are busy throughout the elementary wing, and throughout the entire facility.

Easling said that the drywall contractor had 25 men on the job, and the electrical contractor had 15 men on site.

Drywall sheets, five-eighths of an inch thick, have a special paper sheet inside designed as a sound barrier to limit noise from escaping into other nearby rooms.

"All the cracks around heating and ventilation ducts above the ceilings are being caulked with a special material also designed to reduce sound," Easling stated.

The common area where students will gather to eat and to relax are huge and will be equipped with projectors adding an entertainment and information quality to the space.

Outside recreation and general people places are numerous and will provide many opportunities for students to get some exercise and gather for conversation.

The big question is, will the facility be ready for occupancy come September?

A lot of things could get in the way of that happening, but school officials and construction people give a qualified "yes."

Workers lost only a few days because of cold weather. Now spaces are closed off and large propane blowers provide warm air so the areas are comfortable to work in.

There's a lot yet to be done. However, there's enough done so that with a little imagination you can picture what the facility will look like later this year.

"I am impressed with the pride in their work that contractors and their workers are showing," Easling said. "This is going to be a beautiful building."

tendance records suggest that it might be moving upward again. The district is now averaging over 666 students.

When officials planned the new facility, which is designed for 800 students, the district kindergarten enrollment was considerably lower and this year a pre-school was added.

Carlson said that how many new students a new facility might attract is the unknown.

The board plans to continue its discussion about this during its workshop meeting March 12.

Carlson said Monday that in the lower grades, furniture is planned for 24 students, suggesting this might be the size of those classes.

Carlson informed the board that state law allows students who reside within the boundaries of an Indian reservation to attend any bordering school district tuition free. He stated that districts can develop policies to limit such students, providing that space is not available.

John Adkins, superintendent of the Neselem School District, said that their low average of 12 students per class is a strong component of the school and is appreciated by parents. He acknowledged that the law does allow for movement of students from one district to another.

Statue proposed for new school

Statuary honoring the Grand Coulee Tigers, the Coulee Dam Beavers and the Neselem Savages, could become part of the art obligations of the new school facility.

The suggestion was advanced by Grand Coulee Tiger alumni and was received favorably by the Grand Coulee Dam School District board Monday night.

Superintendent Dennis Carlson told board members that the district had received word from the State Art Commission that $75,000 had been set aside for permanent artwork for the new facility. He said the details of how that money can be spent, and for what type of artwork, wasn't immediately clear.

The Tiger alumni advised the district that they were having artist Keith Powell develop some suggestions for the statuary, and that the alumni group might help with some of the expense of the artwork.

The statuary, if developed, would be featured near the front of the school, and show that the Lake Roosevelt facility grew out of the other three schools and their mascots.

The $75,000 the Art Commission holds was part of the money voted by the legislature for the new school. About $100,000 of the project will be devoted to art and a local committee has been formed to follow through on recommendations to the board.

District board mulls realigned administration

by Roger S. Lucas

The school board Monday night agreed to advertise for one administrative post and delay a decision on a second so it could discuss it more during its March 12 work session.

The district begins advertising for a 7th-through-12th-grade principal this week, one that would take charge of the new grade lineup for the new school.

Delayed was a decision on hiring a full-time dean of students, activities director and associated student body advisor, all rolled into one position.

Brandon Byers is currently principal of Lake Roosevelt High School and is ending his one-year provisional appointment. He is expected to apply for the position.

Byers filled out part of a year as interim principal at the Grand Coulee Dam Middle School before being named as head administrator at Lake Roosevelt.

Advertising for the position is a normal function after an administrator serves out his initial one-year trial period, Superintendent Dennis Carlson noted.

The new position takes in the seventh- and eighth-grade middle school classes, which are grouped in the same wing of the new school as the grades 9-12.

Carlson told the board Monday night that he felt the construction was on target to hit a mid-September move into the new school. He stated that the overwhelming number of staff prefers to move into the new school at the beginning of the school year, perhaps delaying its opening date.

Carlson said the board would have to make a decision on this sometime this spring.

The delay in making a decision on the dean of student administration position was prompted by the board's reluctance to fill another administrative position.

Currently, the several parts of a new position are being handled by a variety of people.

Carlson stated that the position was necessary because principals in both the elementary wing and secondary wing will have more students to manage and because of new district educational guidelines for administrators. The current middle school students will be split and fall into the two administrative wings of the new school, eliminating one principal position.

The elementary administration, now headed by Lisa Lakin at Center School, is not being advertised.

If CEO cares, he'll step down

Whether he believes he's making all the right decisions as a manager or not, Coulee Medical Center's CEO should resign if he cares at all for the community asset he's tried to lead since 2009.

Events in recent months, including the resignation of a key health care provider on Monday, similar threats from others and the recent unionization of much of the staff, give an unfortunate answer to a question asked at a hospital commission meeting: What evidence is there to suggest he hasn't done what he was hired to do — lead and guide the hospital?

Leaders can't lead if no one will follow.

To be fair, the greater industry environment in which CEO Scott Graham, and every other hospital administrator, finds himself, is something akin to the inside of an active vice, and pressure to reduce costs is increasing all the time.

But over the last four-plus years, we have had the growing impression that the administrative arm of hospital operations has grown as leadership gets parsed into finer and finer delegations of responsibility, until all that's visible is a fog of initiatives, directions and industry jargon. When the newspaper called the CEO to discuss Monday's resignation, the call was returned by the communications director who had been delegated to issue a short statement.

Leadership at a small facility like CMC requires the glow of a personal lantern to light the way, not a fog. Three years ago, we were recently advised by a disillusioned employee in a red union T-shirt, the hospital was a great place to work. No longer.

Graham has a keen mind and is a competent strategist with a firm grasp on the larger issues in healthcare, but his skill set may be better suited to a role in an organization larger than the Douglas, Grant, Lincoln, Okanogan Counties Hospital District 6.

At this juncture, not even the ultimate vindication of whatever strategy the administration is following would be enough to avoid the eventual collapse of the institution, not if it's still led by the same administrator.

Right or wrong, it's time to step down.

Letters to the Editor

Great wrestling coach imparts more than mat skills

I want to take this opportunity to congratulate Grand Coulee and Coulee Dam for having the foresight to have chosen such a great man to be their wrestling coach, Steve Hood.

I have watched and gotten acquainted with this man over the last years. It is abundantly clear that his cares for his wrestlers go far beyond mat time and wrestling. I have watched him instill "right and wrong" in his wrestlers. His message goes far beyond the mat time and carries many important examples for each boy to tailor his own values by. He teaches good manners in the restaurant right through to picking up spectators' mess in the grandstands. These values obviously start with Steve and mirror what he wants his wrestlers to hold as important off the mat.

Steve's message and its delivery are of particular importance to me as he has coached my grandson Kodie Horn for the past few years. This year Steve coached Kodie to his state championship. Kodie's younger brother Kaleb will be the next Horn for Steve to work his magic on. Kodi's victory makes three Horns in a row to be state champs. It all started with Kodie's dad, Jason Horn. Number two, Jake Horn, Kodie's cousin. Now Kodie. This old man's buttons are bustin' and we have four boys to go.

The entire Horn family is very appreciative of the huge amount of hours that Steve has volunteered for his coaching enterprise. All the boys subjected to Steve's enterprise come away as better folks, thanks to Steve and his values.

Thank you, Steve Hood, Grand Coulee and Coulee Dam.

Tribal council doing as it pleases

I have rarely aired my opinion in the newspapers regarding the events of the Colville Confederated Tribes. I've always felt that "we" needed to take care of and keep our own house clean. However, some very serious occurrences have happened recently that show we need to speak up and address the issues now, however we can.

Since any "letter to the editor" in our own Tribal Tribune (the newspaper developed to serve the Tribal membership) is not being accepted for reasons unknown; our local newspapers, social media outlets, and our personal/professional networks must now be our voice.

For approximately two years now, Tribal Administration has been doing as it pleases in regards to selectively hiring, firing, transferring employees, and incessantly attempting a top heavy reorganization (which has failed numerous times currently) which did not work within our past Tribal organization, while disregarding the Tribes Employee Personnel Manual (EPM), and the full Council. This Administration seems to be doing as it pleases; transferring employees to positions without standard due process, unfairly hiring friends, family, and the underqualified all with lack of regard to the EPM and state and federal laws to lead numerous programs employing over 1,000 employees. There are a lot of dollars involved, with tribal, state and federal grants and contracts. The latter, grants and contracts, have specific guidelines and requirements that are obligated to be adhered to by the grantee. If not, there could be serious problems with our audits and the potential loss of those grant dollars that fund much needed programs and employ our membership.

The Colville Business Council has a very clear responsibility per their "Oath of Office" and are obligated to abide by the "Code of Professional Responsibilities." Neither of these, which the CBC are sworn to uphold when they are seated, is being respected or abided by!

The horrible news just within the past week involving CBC while on travel has shamed our Tribe and is more evidence that enough is enough and it is past time to demand change. Our leadership cannot continue to operate under a different set of careless and negligent rules. We have all heard that there are incumbent council members lining their own pockets at tribal member expense. There are incumbent council members misusing tribal issued credit cards at tribal member expense. Business is not being done because of travel, personal vendettas, and absenteeism of those incumbents. These incumbents ran on a promise of TRANSPERANCY in all functions — and clearly that is NOT what is happening.

The present Colville Business Council seems to have forgotten about the membership. The present council is not representing the membership's interests, but self-interests. Per capita payments were promised, and yes we have seen one minimal per capita payment - but that is at the extreme expense of our natural resources and ability to develop and modernize our workforce and Tribe.

I am aware that I am not the only tribal member that is concerned about the actions and inactions of our government and administration. I applaud those that can and are speaking out. We must come together as a membership, and make those changes that will improve our representation and operations of the Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation. Our Constitution and By-Laws and every policy which falls under those must be respected for and by all of us.

Thank you,
Harvey Moses Jr.
Member, Colville Tribe

City hall crew friendlier

Ya know, it used to be when I would go to Coulee Dam City Hall I used to feel challenged, not physically or emotionally, but psychologically. Maybe I'm wrong, but I felt there was a felling of "you better know what you're doing here so you won't waste my time" kind of thing.

Well, anyway, I know the new regime has only been in office for a short while, but I feel a lot more comfortable there doing business.

I know that they have received no training for the job they are doing, so it may take a little longer to get some of the questions answered that we may have. I know that they are a lot more friendly or maybe it's just me, I don't know.

Here's the thing: the mayor is an elected official to do what the people want and he hires his staff. So we're all together here so far. Now, they are to run the town as effectively and efficiently as possible for the good of the people that elected them, and they also need to be people-friendly as not to feel intimidated by them. I feel we have this now, whereas before we did not.

Thank you for letting me share this with you and I appreciate the people we have working for us. Now we'll see.

Help after accident appreciated

On Friday, Feb. 7, I had a one-car accident. I was hoping to find the names of the two people who so generously gave their time to help me and contact the police and ambulance.

This was on SR155 late in the morning. I do know there was a young lady in a van and a gentleman in a BIE van that stopped. I had no cell service, but they did.

Since I can't find out their names, I am hoping that the paper would publish this and maybe my thanks will get to them.

I also want to thank the ems/emts that came to help me. They were Coulee Dam and Grand Coulee volunteers. They were very kind and patient with me, taking the time to explain what was happening to me and what they were going to do. They are a great team.

I want to express my thanks to them.

Beyond Olympics — our own "gold"

So the Olympics are done passing out medals for another year, but there was a very big medal passed out this weekend, and boys' Raider Basketball moved one step closer to get their chance at a coveted medal of their own.

If you wanted to watch team play at its finest this year, all you had to do was watch a local LRHS Raider basketball game. Both boys' and girls' teams developed into great teams as the season wore on. Both teams are young, only one senior dribbling for Raider Basketball this year, so the future looks bright for both programs.

The girls did lose out in overtime over the weekend, but if a team of young ladies, never saying quit, never giving up, is what you want, this is the team for you. Injuries haunted this team this year but the younger players took over, seizing their chance and making the most of it. By the last game, younger players were shining, and mixed with the veterans there were exciting moments. Coaches Pleasants and Ootsey did a fine job molding this team into a contender and the future looks golden.

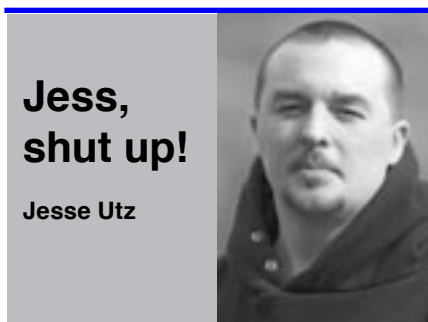

The boys pulled off the win this weekend in overtime. Next is Lind-Ritzville-Sprague, a game to be played Saturday in Cheney. This team thrives on teamwork, and every game they got better and better. Young coaches and younger players made for an exciting mix. Yes, they are still making rookie mistakes, but they are learning from them and are looking to surprise some teams as the regional playoffs start. Good job boys.

Raider wrestling took to the mats at the state wrestling tournament over the weekend. Gold, silver, and bronze all came home. Kodie Horn brought home a state championship and a giant smile. It was a rough 365 days, from falling short of his goal last year to this year's championship. The man standing on top of the podium was Kodie, and Raider Nation is proud. Good job, Kodie, James and Octavio. Way to finish with pride and sheer determination.

All these athletes overcame and conquered this year, and I hold them all in high regards. They overcame injuries, new coaches, inexperience and other troubles we will never realize to become winners, champions and the future. A future that looks full of gold and champions.

Congratulations, Kodie Horn, on your state championship, and good luck to the boys' team this weekend. Put in the work this week and it will pay off Saturday.

Jess, shut up!

In action last week the Grand Coulee School Board renewed football to the sports program at Junior High Level. It had been cancelled for nearly five years. This comes the same week that attorneys for the school district won a small battle in a lawsuit filed by Melvin Hart Jr. and family for his injuries he received in a Junior High football game against Omak Jr. High on Oct. 18th 1979 that left him a semi-quadruplegic. The judgment won by the district says that Hart did have the proper equipment and gear provided to him by the school. The issue will now be about "Adequate Coaching" during the unscheduled jury trial.

A free basic Walleye Clinic will be offered next week, sponsored by Rawe & Rauch. Gregg Ulrigg, an experienced fisherman, will lead the class on history, feeding habits, spawning, and all techniques needed to land a walleye.

LR wrestlers take fifth in state

Three medalists include Horn as champ

by John R. McNeil II

Raider wrestlers completed another successful Mat Classic by finishing fifth overall in the state tournament in Tacoma last weekend. Of the five Raiders in the B classification competition, three came home with medals.

Kodie Horn joins an elite group of Raider wrestlers as the State B 145-pound champion for 2014. Horn defeated all his opponents by pin to make it nine straight pins in the postseason that included sub-regional and regional 145-pound championships to end his senior season.

"Kodie Horn has been wrestling since he was 5 and put in time at camps and extra practice in the mat room to reach this point," Head Raider Coach Steve Hood said.

James Monaghan won his first two matches at 120 to set himself up with a chance at a state title. In the championship match

James Monaghan plans his next move on Ian Bowen of Napavine at state.

Monaghan faced Trent Skelton of Liberty Bell.

Hood said Monaghan had worked hard at practice, making a plan on how to wrestle Skelton. In the match Monaghan wrestled to the plan and it was a close match, Hood said, but Skelton came away the victor. Monaghan came home with a silver medal and a new drive to go back and take the gold.

Octavio Alejandre came back from an injury default in his first match to win third place at 285. Alejandre defeated Diturti of Springdale by decision before winning the bronze medal match. Alejandre has placed at two Mat Classics and will be hungry for the gold next year. Hood said he is proud of how Alejandre came back from the loss, restating his goals for the tournament to place.

Coltin Williams and Oscar Pakootas each went 1-2 for the tournament and did not place. Both faced tough wrestlers and even though they wrestled hard the other guy was able to score more points. It was the second state tournament for each of them, and the experience will aid them as they prep for another state run next year.

Hood now looks to the off season issues, such as the changes next season will bring for Raider wrestling. Leagues may change, there might be an extra regional tournament, and the B tournament might be increased from an eight-man bracket to 16 like the other classifications.

Another change that coaches Hood and Lee Largent support is an amendment to do away with the season match count of 33 matches for a 16-outing limit. This would help teams by allowing the wrestlers to take part in all outings and gain more practical experience for the future. More information will be available in the coming months to these questions.

120 James Monaghan def. Ian Bowen of Napavine 9-0; pinned Jordan Smith of Oroville in 4:36; lost to Trent Skelton of Liberty Bell 7-3.

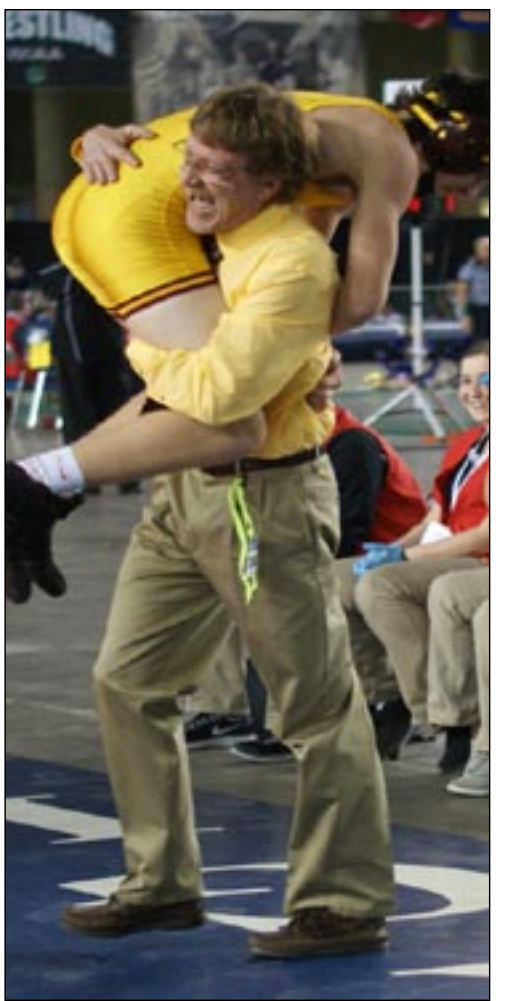

126 Coltin Williams lost to Luke Stacey of Wahkiakum 22-8; def. Shane Kennamer of Darrington 9-5; lost to Jose Kike Marin of Kittitas 5-2.

132 Oscar Pakootas def. David Stone of Tacoma Baptist 15-4; lost to J.D. Gallegos of Kittitas 5-2; lost to Tony Raupp of Winlock 14-8.

145 Kodie Horn pinned Michael Sims of Reardan in 5:33; pinned Jacob McMillan of Liberty Bell in 3:15; pinned Mason Mackey of Wahkiakum in 2:34.

285 Octavio Alejandre lost by injury default to Jacob Klingensmith of Republic; pinned Daniel Helman of Ocosta in 1:52, def. Mark Diturti of Mary Walker-Springdale 5-0; pinned Tristan Newman of Waitsburg-Prescott in 3:16.

Raider boys take second in District 5-6

Move on to regional tournament

by John R. McNeil II

In overtime, the Raiders secured second place in the district tournament Saturday against a foe that had twice beaten them in the regular season.

"We came in ready to play and prove that we deserved to be there," Raider Head Coach Matt Simpson said.

The Raiders defeated both Riverside Christian Wednesday and Liberty Bell Saturday in the district tournament at Wenatchee, earning the district's second berth in the regional tournament next Saturday in Cheney.

The team's coaches, Simpson said, had "challenged them to believe in themselves and play with confidence. They bought into it, and guys stepped up all over."

In the Riverside Christian game, both squads started off slow on offense as the score at the end of the first quarter was still in the single digits tied at 22 at half time.

In the third quarter both offenses began to warm up with the Raiders receiving a spark from Kadin Davis who went on a hot streak. Raider fouls helped Riverside Christian stay in the game. The score at the end of the third quarter was LR 39- RC 35.

In the fourth the Crusaders came back hard and the Raiders had no defensive answer at first. It was anybody's game until the final minutes when LR took the lead and RC began to foul to save time.

But LR gave its best free-throw shooting effort of the season as those fouls to save time turned into the end of Riverside Christian's season. Lake Roosevelt came away the victors, 62-53.

The win earned the Raiders the right to take on Liberty Bell Feb. 22 for the third time this season to decide the last berth to regionals. Liberty Bell, which had bested LR twice in the regular season, played off beat, and the Raiders led for most of the game and a 12-point advantage at the end of three with an apparent win in sight.

But in the fourth, the Mt. Lions came roaring back into the game, erasing their 12-point deficit, and tying the score at 47 after a Raider technical foul at the end of regulation.

In the overtime period, fatigue set in and Jacob Palmer left the court with a knee problem. In the end, the Raiders regrouped from the fourth-quarter let down to win 55-52.

Simpson said the district effort was a "total team contribution."

The next step, he said, will be "another big challenge."

Saturday, LR will take on Lind-Ritzville/Sprague at Cheney High School at the regional tournament between District 5-6 and District 7-9. Tip off is set for 4 p.m.

LR's win-loss record stands at 22-4 for the season. Three of their four losses came at the hands of Northeast 2B and District 7-9 champion St. George's.

LR needs to defeat the Broncos in order to move on to the state B tournament in the Spokane Arena starting on March 6.

Lady Raiders second in north league, third in district

by John R. McNeil II

The Lady Raiders finished the 2013-14 season Saturday with a second-place finish in the Central Washington 2B North and a third-place in the District 5-6 Tournament.

In overtime, Oroville ended the Lady Raiders' season in the district tournament in Wenatchee. Head Coach Wallace Pleasants said he is proud of the way the girls played this season despite all the injuries that affected the team.

Earlier in the week the Lady Raiders had defeated the Bridgeport Fillies for the third time this season. The Lady Raiders faced adversity Wednesday at Wenatchee as the Fillies double-, and at times, triple-teamed Lachelle Bearcub. Another bit of adversity LR had to overcome was the knee injury suffered by Ashlee Semmens early in the game.

Bridgeport jumped out ahead 8-0 in the first quarter, but the Ladies adjusted and led for the rest of the game. Lake Roosevelt won, 46-37.

Pleasants "called a timeout early to remind the girls about maintaining their composure," he said, "and we went on a run."

Riley and Alana Epperson led the Lady Raiders in scoring with 16 points apiece. Bearcub scored five points against the Fillies.

The Lady Raiders then faced the Oroville Hornets on the Feb. 22 to decide which would get the second berth into regional tournament.

Oroville jumped out ahead early and stayed ahead until the third quarter, when the Lady Raiders stiffened on defense and held the Hornets to just four points while scoring 11 themselves.

At the start of the fourth, with the score 26-23 in favor of LR, the Hornets came screaming back. LR answered back scoring points to keep it a close game. LR came into the quarter with foul trouble and players began to foul out. Still even with four of the five starters fouled out, Riley in overtime. The last starter, fouled out and the Lady Raiders ran out of steam, leading to the final score of 51-38 for the Hornets.

"Oroville game was probably one of our better games," Pleasants said. "Early on we didn't run our offense, just looking to shoot threes. After a timeout, we settled down and ran our sets, getting back into the game and even taking the lead in the third quarter."

Lachelle Bearcub led the team with 17 points, Riley Epperson was the next highest with 12.
